INTRODUCTION

The NJCAA Men's Basketball Coaches Association would like to wish you a happy new year and the best in the second half the 2016-17 season. This is my second year as the president of the NJCAA Men's Basketball Coaches Association and we have made some great strides over the last few months. In early November, our organization was granted a seat at the National Association of Basketball Coaches (NABC) table for representation. We are extremely excited to partner with Jim Haney (Executive Director), Reggie Minton (Deputy Executive Director) and all of the outstanding, highly regarded college coaches to give the NJCAA a voice amongst the nation's coaching elite. This will undoubtedly be a huge benefit to the institutions, coaches and student-athletes at the junior college level.

Shortly, we will announce our selections for the 2017 Hall of Fame Class. We encourage all of you to continue submitting nominations for any and all coaches, student-athletes and contributors for future Hall of Fame considerations. We have had many great players and coaches move through the junior college ranks that deserve the recognition.

Our goal is to continue improving our organization and with your help, we can do so!

Executive Director Thom McDonald Takes Seat on NABC Board

In November, the National Association of Basketball Coaches announced a partnership with the National Junior College Athletic Association Men's Basketball Coaches Association that will place Thom McDonald on the NABC Board of Directors.

This alliance comes as uncharted waters for the NJCAA and the NABC. The NABC Board of Directors is made up of 36 members. Current NCAA basketball coaches on the Board include John Calapari (University of Kentucky), Tom Izzo (Michigan State University) and Bill Self (University of Kansas).

"This is a great opportunity for our two year institutions, coaches, and athletes," Thom McDonald said.

"We hope in the future that this opportunity will allow us to have a voice and be heard concerning issues impact our association. We're looking forward to building a relationship with the NABC that promotes the NJCAA."

McDonald has the support of the NJCAA as well.

"The NJCAA is very proud to be represented on the NABC Board of Directors by Thom McDonald," NJCAA Executive Director Mary Ellen Leicht said.

"In his role as a board member with the NJCAA and NABC, he will provide a previously untapped level of communication between both associations. His presence will give the NJCAA and two-year college coaches and athletes a voice at the highest level."

According to Jim Haney, NABC Executive Director, both sides will benefit from the relationship.

"We are thrilled to welcome Thom to our Board of Directors," said Haney. "His coaching background and experience at the NJCAA level will offer an important perspective to our association."

McDonald has an extensive basketball background including past roles as an assistant coach for Florida State and Drake University men's basketball programs.

"The NJCAA is very proud to be represented on the NABC Board of Directors by Thom McDonald"
